He's not lazy, he's ill

Parents claim their son is being 'denied an education'

CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE parents of a Harlow schoolboy suffering from chronic fatigue syndrome claim their son is being "denied an education" because of his illness.

Ten-year-old Luke Hannibal's condition means he is often too tired to attend Potter Street Primary School - but local education authority Essex County Council has so far refused to provide him with home tuition support.

Parents Jackie and Douglas Hannibal, of Potters Field, say they are "disgusted" by the authority's stance - and are now worried Luke has fallen so far behind with his work that he will never catch up with the rest of his class.

"Neither the school nor the county council seem to believe that Luke is genuinely ill, even though they've been provided with letters from his doctors," mum Jackie told the Star.

"Their attitude is that Luke is just being lazy and that we're letting him get away with it. But the reality is that he has a very serious illness and desperately needs home schooling."

Luke's problems began back in January 2011 when he was struck down with severe gastro-oesophageal reflux disease. Following treatment, his parents noticed that he was becoming increasingly lethargic, and some days struggled to get out of bed at all.

Unable to establish the root cause of his tiredness, the family's GP referred Luke to a consultant paediatrician, who identified a number of minor immune deficiencies and wrote to the school to inform staff Luke would be forced to take time off.

WORRIED: Luke Hannibal with mum Jackie, who fears her son's condition is not being taken seriously by education chiefs

Further tests suggested he could be suffering from chronic fatigue syndrome - sometimes referred to as ME - which causes persistent exhaustion that is not alleviated by sleep or rest.

He began treatment for the condition in September last year and gradually reached the point where he was able to attend school for one-and-a-half days per week.

But he has since struggled to improve further and now mum Jackie fears the school will exclude him because of his poor attendance record.

"One of the problems with this illness is that when he has a good day he can seem quite alert and active, but the very next day he might not be able to get out of bed," she explained. "The school won't accept this because they don't understand his condition."

"We think the school now wants to exclude him because of the amount of time he's had off, but there's no way I'm going to put my child's health at risk by sending him in when he's so ill."

She added: "We've pleaded for help with home tuition but neither the school nor the county council seem to want to help us. He is effectively being denied an education, and we don't know what to do."

A spokesman for the county council declined to comment on Luke's individual case, but suggested he would given help if the school was provided with more "medical evidence".

"Referrals to the Children's Support Service must be supported by medical evidence which demonstrates that the pupil is medically unable to attend school," he added.

"In cases such as these we work with the school to support them in ensuring that the pupil concerned is able to access education."

A study conducted in 2011 found that CFS was a major cause of school absence across the UK and could be 10 times more common than previously thought. As many as one in 100 children are believed to suffer from the condition, which currently has no cure.

Police appeal for help to catch cash and curry robbers

STAFF at an Indian takeaway were threatened with a baseball bat by three men who stole cash and mobile phones.

Police are appealing for information after the suspects, who are believed to be aged between 16-22, stole a three-figure sum of money as well as various mobiles from the New Indian Balti Express in Bush Fair at 11.40pm last Wednesday.

Restaurant staff followed them as they fled along two footpaths leading from the takeaway to the Esso petrol station on Tillwicks Road.

They saw the trio cross the road into either Stile Croft or Little Brays before they disappeared from sight.

Two of the suspects were about 5ft 10ins tall while the third was around 5ft 2ins. They are all believed to be white and wore dark clothing, gloves and hats with black scarves pulled over their faces. They all spoke with local accents.

Anyone with information is urged to contact DC Ryan Burgess at Harlow CID on 101 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

Teens arrested for robbery attempts

TWO teenagers have been arrested after two attempted robberies took place within minutes of each other in Harlow town centre.

The first happened at around 9pm on Saturday, March 23 in Broad Walk. An 18-year-old man was walking with friends when they were approached by two men. One had a knife and demanded the victim's mobile phone but he refused to hand it over.

A few minutes later in the West Gate and Market Square area another 18-year-old man was approached by a man who tried to strike up a conversation. There were a group of people standing nearby who were believed to have been with the suspect.

The man asked what phone the victim had and then produced a knife. However, another man from the group allowed the victim to walk away.

Two men aged 17 and 18 from Harlow were later arrested on suspicion of attempted robbery.

Easter treats for shoppers

CHOCOS AWAY: Beryl Murphy with Max (6) and Chloe Lingwood (8) and Sonia Platts

SHOPPERS were in for an eggs-tra special Easter treat when The Water Gardens joined forces with Asda for an Easter egg giveaway on Saturday.

Hundreds of people braved the cold and queued to meet the Easter bunny, who handed out chocolate eggs to sweet-toothed families.

The festivities then continued in the shopping complex throughout the day, with a bouncy castle, live music and street performances keeping the crowds entertained.

Centre manager Beryl Murphy said: "Despite the chill in the air, it was an excellent weekend and we were delighted to welcome so many families to The Water Gardens and present them with their chocolate Easter eggs."

"It was the perfect way to thank our customers for shopping with us and we're very pleased with how the day turned out. Hopefully everyone enjoyed themselves."

Funding warning as town HIV rate soars

THE National AIDS Trust is calling on Harlow Council to press County Hall for extra funding to tackle the town's alarming rate of HIV infection.

Harlow has the 16th highest prevalence of people living with HIV outside of London. The charity now wants Essex County Council to make the diagnosis and prevention of sexually transmitted infections a priority when the authority is handed the purse strings for the county's public health spending this month.

Recent figures indicate the number of people living with HIV in Harlow has risen dramatically over the past 10 years.

Currently one in 308 people living in the town has the condition compared to one in 1,143 in 2002. UK-wide, the prevalence measures one in 650.

Charity chief executive Deborah Jack said local councillors now needed to take a lead on the issue to stop the situation from worsening.

"Essex County Council has been allocated £48,874,000 by the Government to spend on public health over the next year, but worryingly

CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

within that budget there will be no ring-fencing for HIV," she said.

"Harlow's local councillors now need to push for a strong commitment to HIV from Essex to ensure HIV prevention and testing continue to receive the necessary funding."

According to the charity, 66 per cent of people living with HIV in Harlow are likely to have been infected for at least five years before being diagnosed, increasing the chance of the virus being passed on unknowingly.

Ms Jack added: "Disinvestment in HIV prevention and testing would seriously harm public health, especially in an area like Harlow which has a high rate of HIV."

Harlow Council leader Mark Wilkinson said the authority would be "doing all it can" to ensure the town's sexual health services got the funding they needed.

"We will be working closely with the newly formed West Essex Clinical Commissioning Group, Essex County Council and other organisations to develop a strategy for Harlow which will look at addressing the town's needs and priorities for health and wellbeing - including sexual health," he said.

An Essex County Council spokesperson added: "The council recognises the importance of reducing the prevalence of HIV and other blood borne viruses as well as the challenge of chlamydia and teenage pregnancy."

"The delivery of sexual health advice and testing is one of the nationally mandated areas of public health and one of the most complex. HIV treatment is the responsibility of NHS England."

"Going forward, Essex County Council will be working to ensure local sexual health services best meet the needs of our residents."

"A sexual health needs assessment is currently in development and the insight provided will help us to better understand the broader context of the disease and its associated burden, informing the way in which ECC commissions sexual health services in the future."

The ambulance service in Harlow is stretched, with only one ambulance - or bus as it is better known by staff - serving the town and the surrounding area.

I joined Tim White (36) and Jack Squires (23), both based at the Harlow station for an insight into their working day. They had both started at 7am and had already helped a woman who had fallen, injuring her face badly and unable to remember who she was.

Following a quick tour of the offices and a check on rapidly diminishing stocks, the radios sounded and we were off. The call had come from Stansted Airport and since both the ambulance and the emergency car had been removed from the airport, Harlow was the first point of call.

Using blues-and-twos - the familiar flashing lights and warning siren - and some very skilled driving which left me a little queasy, we arrived at Stansted in good time. The patient, who was flying out to Spain, had reported feeling unwell and was helped off the plane to be given a swift "health MOT" to see if he was in need of further attention.

On this occasion he was fine and more than eager to get back on the flight, which had been delayed for an hour.

"It's a shame he had to wait so long for an ambulance but we were in Harlow," said Tim. "That's 15 miles we need to cover and we were just with another patient who we had to make sure was all signed off and okay before we could head here."

"It's a demanding job. With just one ambulance, the general public suffers because we now have to do a lot more driving and cover a lot more jobs. It means that waiting is going to become almost inevitable for some people, which I don't think is good enough. But we're trying our best."

He added: "An emergency response car can't do everything that an ambulance can, which means that even if a car can get somewhere in a few minutes, they then need to wait for us. That's hard for them as they want to help and do more, and it's hard for the patient who has to wait, usually in pain or discomfort."

Jack is driving today but normally they take it in turns. "If I'm driving then Tim will be attending and vice versa," he said. "Whoever is attending will be the main person dealing with the patients unless it's something that requires both of us."

"The attending paramedic will also sit in the back of the ambulance with the patient to make sure they're okay and have a chat to help them feel at ease."

"Sometimes it's difficult if I'm working on my own. Then we have to ask the person in the emergency car to come with us to oversee the patient in the back of the ambulance as I drive back to hospital. Then I have to drive him back to his emergency car so it's another push on time."

I'm told that we're lucky today as we've stayed fairly local, having travelled no more than around 16 miles to a call. "Yesterday we called up to Colchester for a patient and

Understaffed, one ambulance a day to hit - a day in the life of a frontline worker

Public confidence in the East of England Ambulance Service has been shaken recently with reports of long waiting times, missed NHS targets, poor care standards, and reviews into the Trust's "serious" performance issues.

The Care Quality Commission has also recently ordered EEA to improve after its emergency response times deteriorated significantly during 2012.

But as the volume of emergency calls increases, staff have complained there are simply not enough of them to deal with the work, despite recent employment drives within the NHS to recruit more emergency care assistants and other personnel.

that's almost 30 miles," said Tim. "When I first started here there was nowhere near as much driving but with the cuts and the fact we are the only ambulance in Harlow, sometimes we're going to be called further away."

"Our job is to save lives and that's made very hard when there's only one Harlow ambulance and we're understaffed, which is why they're turning to private ambulances. I think long-term that's going to end up more expensive than just buying a new one."

In the ambulance service there are three main roles: paramedics, who are trained to do everything necessary to save a life; technicians; and emergency care assistants (ECAs), who work with the paramedics but are not allowed to undertake all the procedures that could save a life.

Jack added: "At the moment there is no pathway for an ECA to work towards being a paramedic unless they take time out to do a degree, but this job is skills-based and although the theory is necessary it will not prepare you for working with the public, usually in a time of crisis."

"I know a lot of ECAs would like to become paramedics but don't want to - or simply can't - take the time off work."

"When I first started I remember them mentioning that the NHS were working on a new pathway so that ECAs could become paramedics but it's yet to happen. The thing is, a lot of ECAs can administer that lifesaving treatment but are just not allowed to do so unless there's a paramedic supervising."

"It seems a little bit silly considering we're understaffed and need more paramedics."

At Princess Alexandra Hospital, the relationship between nurses and ambulance staff seems friendly and happy. Most of these people have been working a 12-hour shift in a high-pressure environment but still find time for a quick chat with me and a joke with their colleagues before they are called away to save more lives.

The emergency staff are having to cope with cuts to frontline staff. They are overstretched in an extremely large area and are trying hard to reach new NHS targets under limited man-power.

The ambulance service has an eight minute target of reaching an emergency or 'red' call.

The countdown starts from when the phone is put down to when the ambulance arrives on the scene.

The problem with having only one ambulance in Harlow is that less urgent calls are put further down the list of importance - with the inherent risk of becoming more serious as a result of the waiting time.

It seems to be a vicious circle. Cuts are made to save money which has a knock-on effect on targets, resulting in the public waiting longer for an ambulance.

"We are here to save lives and if people are waiting then there's something very wrong with that," said Tim. "But at the same time, we as ambulance staff are trying our very hardest to perform to the best level possible in what can only be described as a difficult situation."

Chairman quits after growing criticism of trust's performance

THE chairman of the region's troubled ambulance service has quit her post.

Maria Ball resigned with immediate effect on Thursday. She had been in the role for five years.

The announcement was made after the East of England Ambulance Service Trust had been ordered to improve by the Care Quality Commission after failing to meet its care and welfare target.

It is the first time an ambulance trust anywhere in the country has been found to be failing on this measure.

The trust has said its plans include recruiting "many more" frontline staff, better managing sickness absence, creating clearer career pathways and introducing a "renewed focus on patient handover delays".

Paul Remington, vice-chairman of the trust thanked Ms Ball, pictured, for her dedication and commitment through what he said had been some "challenging times".

"Maria oversaw the formation of this trust, bringing together three disparate organisations into one service, and its subsequent development," he said.

"We now must concentrate on looking forward and focusing solely on how we improve our service to patients and better support our staff. To that end, we are developing a transformational plan."

Emergency response times deteriorated last year and while the trust achieved its targets in places such as Luton and Peterborough, it regularly failed to meet them elsewhere in the region.

Patients could not be assured they would receive care in a "timely and effective manner", the report concluded.

Inspectors said managers were unable to sufficiently explain why.

Staff said the volume of emergency calls had increased but there were not enough people to deal with them.

They also cited delays in handing over patients at hospitals and in sending back-up ambulances to incidents.

Care minister Norman Lamb, who is also Liberal Democrat MP for North Norfolk, said he believed Ms Ball had done the right thing by stepping down.

He said: "It's essential now that we get strong leadership to turn this trust around and to ensure that local people have a service that they can rely on."

Halfon welcomes Government action to tighten up on immigration rules

ROBERT HALFON

NEW reforms to the UK's immigration system have been welcomed by Harlow MP Robert Halfon.

The Government has taken steps to tighten immigration by cutting access to benefits for non-UK nationals after six months and clamping down on health tourism by allowing the NHS to claim back money owed for treatment by those not entitled to it.

It has also introduced local residency tests for immigrants seeking to join the housing register.

Mr Halfon said: "Immigration has always been the number one issue on the doorstep and in my surgeries. These reforms have seen net immigration cut down by a third since the last general election.

"I welcome the new steps which have been set out to ensure everyone who comes here pays their way and gives something back.

"By changing the rules on benefits and National Health Service treatment we will stop our system from being a 'soft touch' and making entitlement to public services something migrants will have to earn and not receive as an automatic right.

"It will stop the 'something for nothing' culture."

Homes response is not scaremongering

SIR, Harlow Council leader Mark Wilkinson accuses Conservative councillors of scaremongering over proposals for massive housebuilding on Harlow's southern boundary (Star, March 28). We would like to provide the facts, not fiction.

Conservative ward councillors are simply responding to residents who have asked for our help after failing to get reassurances from any member of his administration about concerns they expressed at a meeting with the Katherines and Summers Residents' Association. It is very easy for Cllr Wilkinson to say there is no planning application. This is true for now, but developers' plans do exist for these 2,500 homes on Epping land, right against Harlow's boundary.

These propose access roads only into Harlow on to Water Lane, Broadley Road and Phelps Road. This means thousands more cars along Southern Way and estate roads like Paringdon Road, creating even more congestion on our overburdened infrastructure.

It seems they have already been told, presumably by Epping Forest Council, they can't have access onto the B181, yet our Labour council refuses to show the same resolve.

This is Labour's first big opportunity to show they really support residents, especially across south Harlow. So far they have shown precious little care or commonsense, throwing away an opportunity to negotiate from a position of strength and giving developers the green light to go to the next stage - submitting their plans to Epping Forest Council to build around Harlow's borders, knowing that Harlow's Labour administration will not object to it.

Road 'improvements' are a waste of money

SIR, When the 'improvements' were made to the A14 by dualling the road to the Southern Way roundabout, local residents who travelled the route daily predicted it would do little to improve the situation for motorists entering the town and that traffic would continue to back up even on to the M11.

As we have seen, the dual carriageway into the town remains a slow-moving traffic jam which still frequently backs up onto the motorway. It cost £9.9m and did not solve the problem.

We now read in the Star that a further £2.9m is to be spent on what is perceived by the highways authority as the next blockage to traffic on the route towards the town centre - the Clock Tower roundabout.

To do this represents a complete waste of public money as neither schemes tackle the fundamental nature of the problems. Congestion is not caused by the design of these parts of the route into town but by the fact that at both Southern Way and the Clock Tower traffic does not clear from the exits because it actually backs up from the town centre.

Strategically placed pedestrian crossings, traffic lights and bus lanes very effectively constrict every route from the east into the town centre in the mornings. Let's take a look at each main route:

A1025 Second Avenue: the two pedestrian crossings near the Leisurezone on Second Avenue and the poor design of the roundabout by the centre interrupt the flow of traffic very effectively. Just ask any driver who travels the route daily.

Southern Way A1169: A similar problem occurs in preventing traffic from clearing the exit from the A14 roundabout. As traffic moves westwards there is immediately a roundabout followed by a pedestrian crossing by Traceys Road. This serves the entrance to Passmores Academy so at rush hours when children are going to and from school it provides an excellent constriction, preventing traffic clearing from the A14.

First Avenue: This route sports three pedestrian crossings, one serving a school. The newest one near Park Lane was actually built and the perfectly sound underpass near that point closed.

Edinburgh Way A141: Traffic flow in Edinburgh Way has been very effectively constricted by the provision of a new pedestrian crossing, a set of traffic lights and a narrowing of the road to facilitate the entrances to Harlow Retail Park. I am not against people being able to cross the road but underpasses can be made much safer by use of good lighting, CCTV and large screen displays externally placed so everyone can see what is going on in the underpass. Also, a great deal of disruption to the traffic flow might have been avoided if a more imaginative scheme had been devised to enable traffic to enter and leave the retail park.

It seems the Clock Tower plan is set in motion because it has not had any publicity until now. In these stringent times it is unbelievable that good money should be thrown at this problem when it is obvious that more creative solutions are needed.

If traffic backs up from the town centre and along the routes from the east, then no amount of money spent on the Clock Tower roundabout area will solve the basic problem. I am surprised our MP seems to back the scheme when fundamentally a greater part of the solution is to build a major east-west road linking the M11 to the A14 at Eastwick.

Perhaps we should name the Clock Tower 'improvements' Halfon's Folly. Or perhaps the highways authority and the Department of Transport can be persuaded to have a rethink.

Making the profiteers pay for their mistakes

SIR, It is distressing to hear how effective has been the Government's policy of attacking the poorest who rely on welfare benefits by those who should know better (Letters, March 28).

We are told we are all in this together, despite the fact that it was the rich rather than the poor who caused the current crisis. Yet those in the top 10 per cent who should be the ones to pay for the mistakes, who are most able to pay and would suffer least by doing so, are actually getting richer. It is these what in the Second World War we called profiteers who should be challenged to pay.

Why do ordinary decent people get so upset at the poor receiving benefits, even though at far less than the minimum income standard, whilst allowing the rich - many of whom owe their wealth to gifts to their ancestors centuries ago, overcharging for goods and services or indeed from criminal activity and avoidance of tax - to continue to do so unchallenged? The main reason for poverty is not financial irresponsibility, being workshy, lack of education etc. Poverty is caused in this wealthy country by 90 per cent of the wealth being in the hands of the top 10 per cent, which means that the rest of us are left fighting for what remains and resulting in the weakest having next to nothing.

Why is this allowed to continue? It is because the rich are determined to hold on to their wealth and power and those who could have changed things - the churches, the political parties, the electorate and even the poor themselves - have not taken the injustice seriously enough.

If wealth was more fairly shared then we would have fewer welfare problems, less expenditure and more time to concentrate on the real wellbeing of all people rather than simply alleviating the needs of the most desperate.

It would also mean a better balanced economy, a more real equality of opportunity, a recognition of the value everyone has with their varying contributions and a real sense of "being in this together". We should try it!

Government making poor pay council tax

SIR, I am sorry John Caston found me "painting a pretty picture" of council finances (Letters, March 28). I, too, am appalled that the Government is making the poorest pay council tax for the first time which, despite his crocodile tears, our MP voted for in Parliament.

Harlow Council had no alternative to impose this regressive tax as most of the council tax monies are collected by the local council and passed straight to Essex County Council, the police authority and the fire authority.

Harlow gets less than 20 per cent of what Harlow people pay to provide the vast array of local services, including the most expensive which is education which takes half the tax.

The Government is enforcing this measure of a new council tax, penalising the very poorest in society while giving millionaires a major tax cut of five per cent this very week.

By the way, councillors in Harlow will not be receiving any increase in their personal allowance, which is under £5,000 a year... although I am sure some would say that's £5,000 too much!

Cllr Mike Danvers (Labour)
Tunneade Harlow

I'd rather be working than receive benefits

SIR, Whilst I agree somewhat with John Caston's comments on the council, I fail to see how he with his £800 per month cannot pay the £50 per month towards his council tax. I am on benefits and do not receive anywhere near his amount, but have been bullied and threatened with court action by the council if I do not get their pint of blood from a dry stone.

I, like many others, have had to go without food simply to have enough money for heating in the recent very cold spell. Now I will become even deeper in debt.

I must also put correspondent Victoria Clifton (Letters, March 28) in her place. Not everyone on benefits wants to be so. Yes, there are many who relish the fact it is free money - those who have never worked, do not work and will never work. But I, who put my life on the line for this country more than 30 years ago and who suffered molestation as a child with now increasing mental health difficulties and issues due to that molestation, do not want to be on benefits. I want to work.

Forget the law about discrimination for those with mental health issues; the truth is far darker. Most of us are deemed by employers as unemployable unless they themselves have been affected. So please Ms Clifton, do not judge the few unless you have walked in our shoes and suffered what I have and am still suffering.

My son works full time to earn £800 a month

SIR, I must comment on John Caston's letter regarding his benefits and how he has to "manage" on £800 a month.

My son works full time and takes home £800 a month. I suggest Mr Caston needs a reality check bearing in mind that he receives this money for not actually doing anything.

Easter eggs-travaganza in schools across town

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

EASTER came early in Harlow as schools went all out to celebrate before the holiday break.

At St Nicholas School more than 100 pupils took part. Head of infants Margaret Jones said: "We do something like this every year where children have the opportunity to get creative."

"They loved it and we had some fantastic hats."

Busy Bees Nursery used their bonnet competition as the grande finale following two weeks of Easter themed activities.

"Children were able to make cards and chocolate nests as well as take part in an egg hunt around the nursery."

Nursery manager Louise Christie said: "The Easter bonnet was our big finish after a fortnight of fun and the definite highlight to our celebrations."

"The children got their parents to help them make a bonnet which they then proudly presented to us on our specially-built stage."

Pupils and staff at Jerounds Infants School, in Pyenest Road, (pictured above), were visited by the Easter Bunny who treated children to an egg hunt in the school playground.

Clerical assistant Jackie Watkins said: "This is something we do annually and the children love it."

"While the children were out with the Easter Bunny on their egg hunt, some friends were able to fill up their Easter baskets with treats.

"It was a great day and the children loved it."

A new company also decided to make the most of the festivities by organising an Easter competition in Harlow's schools.

The education improvement specialist Schools Direct, which recently relocated from Hatfield, decided to celebrate with a competition which saw sales and marketing team members Katy Coupland and

To enter the competition staff were required to guess the weight of a jar of mini eggs. The winner, Michelle Levy, of Stewards Academy, was awarded with the jar of sweets and a £50 Amazon voucher.

Ms Poric said: "We visited schools to say thank you to the unsung heroes, the school support staff who work tirelessly to ensure schools run smoothly so teachers can focus on the teaching."

Soldier's sacrifice inspires charity hair shave

THE cousin of a Harlow soldier killed in Afghanistan is shaving her head in his honour to raise money for Help for Heroes and will then donate her locks to a children's charity.

Gina Willison (21), of Rivermill, lost her 19-year-old cousin, Robert Foster, in 2007 when he and two comrades were killed. They came under fire from an American plane following a mix-up over grid references.

"When my grandfather died Robbie and I became a lot closer and I feel like we had become really close friends when he was killed while on duty," said Gina.

"I've been thinking of shaving my hair for charity for a while and thought that Help for Heroes would be the perfect group to help as they supported and helped Robbie's family a lot.

"I'll also be donating my hair to the Little Princess Trust which provides real hair wigs for children. I was almost in tears when I saw the work the charity does and I'm really glad I can help two great causes."

She added: "If Robbie was here today he would probably think I was mental for shaving all my hair off, but I know he'd support it.

"After all, it's going to grow back and I just want to raise as much money as possible."

Gina, who is hoping to raise £500 for Help for Heroes, will be shaving her hair on Monday, June 24. To sponsor Gina visit her fundraising page at www.justgiving.com/Gina-Willison.

Store staff hand over proceeds of year's fundraising

MARKS & Spencer staff presented a cheque to one local charity after spending a year raising money for the good cause.

St Clare Hospice received the cheque for £1,400 at a presentation in the Broad Walk store. The money will go towards helping with the general running costs of the hospice at Hastingwood.

M&S community charity organiser Pauline Brew said: "We choose a local charity from a list of several organisations that are put up."

"We chose St Clare last March as it's a well-known charity that has helped and touched a lot of people's lives."

"All the money we raised during the year came from our staff's excellent efforts. It's not easy in this climate to raise money, especially as M&S, as a whole, do a lot of charity work, too."

"We know how much St Clare helps the community so we're really excited to help and we had fun doing so."

Harlow Foodbank collects new van

SUCCESSFUL fundraising and the support of local people and organisations meant that the town's foodbank were finally able to collect the keys to its new van from Edinburgh Way based Bristol Street Motors.

The charity raised more than £13,000 and received a grant of £6,000 from The Big Society which was enough to buy the van that will now help with food deliveries to those in need in Harlow and the surrounding area.

Director of community services Gary Knott said: "We are very grateful to everyone who made a donation towards the new van."

"The amount of money we were able to raise was well beyond anything we expected and we're very humbled by the feedback and donations we have been given. It is always very encouraging to see how people still want to support local good causes, even through this difficult economic climate."

"The van will be well used in the years to come as the foodbank continues to grow and support people in crisis in Harlow and the surrounding areas."

Lottery winners

THE winner of the £1,000 first prize in the St Clare Hospice lottery drawn on Friday, March 29 was ticket number 281150. The winner lives in Sawbridge-worth The £100 second prize was won by ticket number 419075. The winner lives in Harlow.

The Big Body Boost provides a different kind of fundraiser

bianca.castro@hertssexnews.co.uk

TWO runners are calling on health, beauty and sports organisations to help give the town a Big Body Boost and raise money for worthy causes.

Georgina Spenceley (26) and Vicky Lane (27) have teamed up with Paringdon Sports and Social Club to put on the sport-themed Big Body Boost event to promote health and fitness and raise money for good causes.

The charity event on May 4 will feature a range of activities including martial arts, dance classes and rugby come-and-try sessions as well as a beauty fete offering treatment and health advice.

All money raised will be split between Help the Hospices and Mind, the causes Georgina and Vicky are supporting.

Sports therapist and nutritionist Georgina, of Morningsons, Harlow, said: "It is a great opportunity for the whole family to try new activities and see what amazing groups and clubs Harlow has to offer."

Former Star reporter Vicky, of Ambery Court, Harlow,

FITNESS FANS: Georgina Spenceley, Troy Mead and Vicky Lane are hoping health and sports are the key to fundraising success added: "We want as many local groups as possible to take part."

"All we are asking is for local sports groups to offer a raffle prize and for anyone who wants a stall - a raffle prize and a £10 donation."

Paringdon Club co-owner Troy Mead said: "Paringdon Sports and Social Club is still Harlow's best kept secret with loads to offer. We hope as many people as possible will come down for a really fun, action packed day in aid of two great causes."

Gunner runner Natasha wins stadium race

A YOUNG Arsenal fan from Harlow was the first girl in a race to complete one lap of Arsenal's home ground and cross the finish line.

Natasha Cohen (9), who lives at Church Langley, braved the freezing weather to take part in the 7-14s annual 'Be a Gunner. Be a Runner.' race at the Emirates Stadium. Competitors from more than 25 countries around the world took part.

Natasha was presented with a medal, certificate and trophy by the Gunners' mascot, Gunnersaurus.

Natasha's mother, administrator Janet Cohen, said: "Natasha was so excited to come first and win the trophy. We're very proud of her, especially since the conditions on the day were awful and it was freezing."

"She is so happy to have done so well and raised money for a good cause at the same time."

The race was run in aid of The Arsenal Foundation, the North London club's charity that aims to transform the lives of young people in the UK and overseas through education and sport.

'Be a Gunner. Be a Runner.' has raised over £20,000 for the foundation since it was launched in 2011 to mark the club's 125th anniversary.

Tax rebels take fight to council

A PROTEST group fighting Harlow Council's decision to make jobless residents pay council tax for the first time ever has accused the authority of "declaring war on the poor".

Harlow Council Tax Rebels launched the blistering attack ahead of an anti-cuts rally planned for the town centre this weekend.

Their 'Can't Pay? Don't Pay!' campaign has now won the backing of Harlow Trades Union Council and Harlow Defend Council Housing. The three groups will be canvassing support for their shared cause outside the Civic Centre on Saturday morning.

As reported in the Star last month, the rebels - led by a spokesman calling himself 'Wat Tyler', the man who led the Peasants' Revolt of 1381 - have advised hard-up households to refuse to pay their council tax bills in protest at plans to charge everyone of working age at least 24 per cent of their annual bill.

"We will be taking our message of 'Can't Pay? Don't Pay!' to Saturday's protest," said Mr Tyler.

"It's a disgrace that people who cannot afford to heat their own homes in arctic weather are now expected to pay at least a quarter of their council tax bills."

"Harlow Council's decision to inflict this burden on the hard-pressed jobless people of the town is fundamentally immoral. We simply do not have the money to pay, and refuse to do so."

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

The group's main gripe with the council stems from the authority's refusal to absorb the Government's 10 per cent cut in funding for council tax support.

Instead, it is demanding up to 24 per cent council tax from unemployed residents - whereas neighbouring East Herts Council is asking struggling households to pay just 8.5 per cent.

Mr Tyler added: "Harlow's so-called Labour council appears happy to support the Conservative-Liberal Democrat government's hateful war on the poor rather than defend those struggling to find the money for food and fuel."

But council leader Mark Wilkinson said it had been left with no choice but to ask unemployed residents to pay up.

"To fill the shortfall would have meant making serious cuts to frontline services, along with large increases in the council's share of council tax," he said.

"We asked residents for their views on the Local Council Tax Support Scheme and have used the consultation's findings, which included the view that all residents should make some contribution to local services."

"There is help available to those who will genuinely struggle to pay and people should contact the council now so this support can be provided."

Stake your claim to a community award

VOLUNTARY groups in West Essex and East Herts that work wonders to improve the lives of their communities are being given the chance to share in a £10,000 pot of cash.

To celebrate its 120th anniversary, local funeral director Daniel Robinson & Sons - in association with the Star and the Bishop's Stortford Observer - wants to shine the spotlight on those who give up their time to help others.

Whether it is raising money, supporting the disabled, extending opportunities to young people or helping the sick and elderly, the family-run funeral firm, which has offices in Harlow, Sawbridgeworth, Epping, Bishop's Stortford and Dunmow, wants to honour the fantastic work being undertaken locally which too often goes unnoticed and unrewarded.

Managing director Gary Neill said: "The Cash for the Community Awards are the final event planned by Daniel Robinson & Sons in celebration of our 120 years of service as a local family business.

"We appreciate the dedication that goes into organising and running local community groups and this is a chance for us to recognise the great and the good in the area for all their hard work.

"For many years we've arranged and sponsored a wide range of community events and to date we have raised over £700,000 through golf days and charity balls for our local hospices. We support many other events through sponsorship and prize donations.

HOW GROUPS CAN APPLY FOR A SHARE OF THE CASH

You can pick up an application form from any of the eight Daniel Robinson & Sons branches in Harlow, Epping, Sawbridgeworth, Bishop's Stortford, Dunmow, Braintree, Loughton and Halstead.

Forms are also available from the Star office at 6 West Gate, Harlow, and from the Bishop's Stortford Observer office at 12 North Street, Bishop's Stortford. Alternatively, they can be downloaded from Daniel Robinson & Sons website at www.drobinson.co.uk or from the Harlow Star website at www.harlowstar.co.uk.

"Our children's Christmas pantomime trips to The Playhouse have become annual events and a chance for recently bereaved and sick children to spend the day together with their families having fun.

"Using our entire fleet of limousines, they are treated to a convoy trip with police escort, lunch and then a trip to the pantomime. It really is a truly humbling and delightful day.

"Knowing how hard it is for our valuable community groups to continue their good work, we would like Star readers to nominate a local group to receive one of our Cash for the Community Awards."

Local charities, community groups, school projects, welfare organisations, youth clubs and sporting groups are eligible to win a share of the £10,000.

Those who would like to nominate their organisation need to tell us what the group does and how it helps, how it is run and funded, how it would use the Cash for the Community money and the impact it would have on its members and the community.

The closing date for nominations is April 29. Applications will then be considered by a panel of judges made up of selected representatives of Daniel Robinson & Sons, the Star, Bishop's Stortford Observer and independent members.

All the finalists will be invited to a glittering awards evening hosted by former Anglia TV newsreader Helen McDermott at Rhodes in Bishop's Stortford on Tuesday, June 4, when the winners will be announced.

The successful nominees will receive awards ranging from £250 to £1,000. In total, 24 awards will be made.

Star editor Ken Morley said: "The Cash for the Community Awards is a brilliant way to celebrate the valuable work going on in our communities by an army of unsung heroes who give up their time to help improve the lot of others.

"Too often this contribution to making our corner of the world a better place for all goes on quietly without recognition - that's why we're supporting the Cash for the Community Awards."

Mods and rockers unite for Easter egg drive

MODS and rockers set aside their differences to help put a smile on the faces of young patients on Princess Alexandra Hospital's Dolphin Ward this Easter.

Rough Creed Motorcycle Club and the Herts & Essex Scooter Club joined forces on Easter Sunday to deliver more than 200 chocolate treats to the ward.

The eggs were donated by local shops including Asda and The Post Office, while Cash Concepts gifted a 40in LCD television for the cause.

Rough Creed member Richard West said: "We're very grateful for everyone who helped us, especially to Cash Concepts and their donation of a TV which I'm sure the children at PAH will really appreciate." Scooter club member Andy Smith added: "We were pleased to have been invited along by the bikers. It was pretty awesome to have scooters and motorbikes out riding together. "It was fantastic that we could get involved in such a great cause at Easter."

Track repairs cause chaos on the trains

EMERGENCY engineering work caused havoc to rail passengers' travel plans yesterday (Wednesday) as trains between Harlow and London were cancelled.

Hundreds of commuters were left stuck at the station as they were told to avoid travelling to the capital by train or risk severe delays by using a replacement bus service.

The disruption - caused by a line fault - began following the morning rush hour and led to a partial track closure between Broxbourne and Cheshunt, meaning London-bound services and trains to Stansted were cancelled or delayed.

Among the disgruntled passengers was local Conservative councillor Andrew Johnson, who had planned to spend the day in London with his daughter.

He said: "I was planning a day out in London with my daughter, taking the time off work to do so, but after queuing for ages to buy my tickets I was just told not to bother."

"I was told there was no assurance that

there would be a bus replacement service or when it would arrive.

"When I got home and checked the Greater Anglia website it said there was. It was bad communication and it ruined what would have been a good day out.

Another commuter, who asked not to be named, was on her way to meet her son for an important hospital appointment.

She said: "This is silly, I saw the sign stuck on the parking bay meter but it wasn't dated."

"There wasn't any any sign of the bus replacement service either, so I didn't know what I was supposed to do."

A spokesperson for Greater Anglia said: "We did provide a bus replacement service from Broxbourne and made sure that this information was available."

"We have done our utmost to put the service in place to ease customer's journeys, although this can take time."

Hundreds join charity walk on Good Friday

MORE than 300 people joined Heart4Harlow's charity walk on Good Friday to support the work of the Harlow Foodbank.

The Walk of Witness saw participants donate food as well as take part in readings and prayers for the town.

The morning walk ended in the Harvey Centre where Street Pastors, The Salvation Army, Harlow

Foodbank and hundreds of Harlow residents sang traditional hymns.

Harlow Town chaplain Robert Findlay said: "It was a fantastic gathering to celebrate Good Friday and it was good to see so many people supporting Harlow Foodbank by donating tins and packets of food."

"It was another event that highlights how generous and kind the people of Harlow are."

Labour's Parliamentary hopeful Suzy Stride, who also joined the walk, added: "It was fantastic to see both faith and social action come together to aid the ever-growing demand on the foodbank."

"In these hard economic times it was inspiring to see so many rally round to support a worthy cause."

Police bust drugs ring

POLICE seized almost £5,000 worth of cocaine and a four-figure sum of cash in a drug raid on Thursday.

Officers made the discovery after swooping on two addresses in Mill Court, Harlow, following reports of drug dealing in the area.

They arrested four men, including a 46-year-old from Harlow, and issued a warning to a middle-aged woman who admitted possession of cannabis.

All four men have been released on bail until the end of May.

Rising Sun's pub award

Chewing gum art is a breath of fresh air

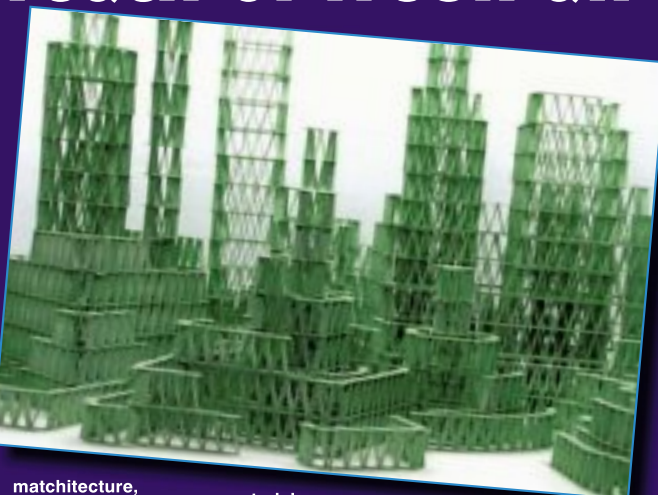

A WACKY artist is hoping his latest creation - a striking sculpture made out of 4,000 sticks of chewing gum - will be a breath of fresh air for the art world.

Jeremy Laffon painstakingly stacked, piled and assembled the minty green material in a variety of ways to create his spectacular cityscape.

Standing at almost two metres tall, the complex work took the 34-year-old art teacher almost three months to build with the help of his class.

"I was invited to teach a room full of art students and I had to find something that would occupy so many people," he said.

"I was inspired by the system of matchitecture, where thousands of matches are used to create a sculpture.

"I've always been fascinated by the construction of a house of cards and decided to create a sculpture with a material that hasn't been used before. "I wanted to use something that was challenging and the characteristics of chewing gum seemed perfect."

You're never too old to learn a new skill!

WHETHER your career is at a crossroads, you need a new qualification as part of your job, your child wants to take up horseriding or you've decided it was time you learned how to swim, learning a new skill is always a great idea!

Learning a new skill does not have to be expensive. There are a number of resources to help you learn from DIY to languages, driving, cookery as well as exciting new hobbies and crafts.

A new skill won't just keep your mind alert and active; it will also provide you with the opportunity to meet new people with similar interests.

Learning something new often requires you to stretch yourself in different aspects - whether physically, mentally or emotionally.

Sometimes it's inspiration from others that will lead us to take on a new challenge. Look how many people took their lead from watching the London 2012 Olympics and tried sports they might never otherwise have considered.

If you have the time and inclination, why not try something completely different? You can use a new skill to help you at home or in later life... or simply just for a change!

Don't leave the driving lessons to the eager 17-year-olds - why not consider an advanced driving course and brush up on your own road skills?

Or perhaps you've never learned to swim and have always meant to. Again, this isn't just for the youngsters. It's never too late to learn.

From our local sports centres to education centres, there are numerous part-time day and evening classes with something for everyone.

Take a look online for centres and courses near you or visit the local library for some advice and take the plunge. You never know where a new skill might take you!

WIN Top price tickets to Rattigan's The Winslow Boy

TERENCE Rattigan's compelling drama The Winslow Boy is currently entertaining audiences at The Old Vic following the success of Cause Célèbre.

Driven by a passionate belief in justice whatever the personal cost, Arthur Winslow sets out to prove his son's innocence when he is accused of theft.

This moving story pits the rights of the individual against the will of the state. The fight for truth played out under the media spotlight tests one family to its very limit.

Rattigan is one of England's greatest playwrights. His many plays include French Without Tears, After the Dance, Flare Path, The Browning Version, The Deep Blue Sea, Man and Boy and Cause Célèbre.

The Winslow Boy premiered in London in 1946. This production is directed by Olivier award-winner Lindsay Posne, whose credits include Noises Off (The Old Vic, West End and UK tour) Abigail's Party, A View From The Bridge, Butley and Carousel (West End).

This week we are giving you the chance to win one of five pairs of tickets to the show by answering this simple question: In what year was the first London stage production of The Winslow Boy?

You can enter by completing the coupon on the right and sending it to Winslow Boy Competition, Harlow Star, PO Box 268, Cambridge CB24 6HF.

If you prefer you can enter by email by sending your entry to competitions@hertsessexnews.co.uk, making sure you put 'Star Winslow Boy' in the subject line, or enter via our dedicated competition link at www.harlowstar.co.uk. Ballet blanc is a romantic reverie

CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

LOSE yourself in romantic reverie this weekend as Harlow Ballet Association revives revered 'ballet blanc' Les Sylphides at The Playhouse.

First performed in 1893, it is probably the best-known non-narrative one-act ballet in the history of the art form.

And according to HBA artistic director Michael Branwell, the show - which features an exquisite musical score by Chopin and classic choreography from all-time great Michel Fokine - is ballet in its purest form.

"Les Sylphides is everything that non-dancers think ballet should be," he told the Star. "You have the exquisite music of Chopin, beautiful girls in flowing white dresses and the hundred-year-old choreography of one of the greatest ballet makers of them all, Michel Fokine."

Les Sylphides will take up the first half of HBA's showcase, with Michael taking centre stage himself after the interval as the company stage a three-pronged retrospective of his finest work as choreographer and director.

The programme will include Pictures at an Exhibition, based on artist Anthea Whitworth's charming interpretations of the music of Modeste Mussorgsky; fantasy dance drama Seascape - a collaboration with Harlow composer John Sothcott; and a long-awaited reboot of The Sorcerer's Apprentice, which Michael first choreographed in 1973 and has since seen performed by three professional ballet companies.

"It's all very exciting," said Michael.

"Normally we concentrate on a full length classic like Swan Lake or The Nutcracker, but this year we are setting real challenges to our dancers.

"I cannot tell you how proud I am of all of them and I hope a lot of the good people of Harlow will turn out to watch them."

● The production opens tonight (Thursday) and runs until Sunday. Evening performances begin at 7.30pm, with 2.30pm matinees on Saturday and Sunday. Tickets cost £11 from (01279) 431945.

Gibberd Gallery secures Arts Council grant boost

The Gibberd Gallery is set to take centre stage as Harlow's primary arts hub after securing a £150,000 grant from Arts Council England.

Split over a three-year period, the award is the biggest funding boost ever given to the arts in Harlow and will be used to expand the gallery's programme of exhibitions and activities.

New operators Harlow Art Trust - who have run the gallery in partnership with owners Harlow Council since April last year - hope the extended offering will encourage greater involvement in the cultural life of the town.

Will Rea, chair of Harlow Art Trust, said: "The grant is a substantial investment from the Arts Council in the artistic and cultural life of Harlow.

"It represents real confidence in the partnership that has developed between Harlow Council and the Harlow Art Trust.

"Fellow Art Trust members and I look forward to the artistic and cultural stimulus that this generous grant will allow and to working with Harlow's community to develop a truly exciting programme for the Gibberd Gallery."

The group plans to launch their new project - dubbed 'Reframe' - within the next month.

It will include a schools outreach programme and talks, lectures and workshops to aid in the professional development of young curators, artists and volunteers

CELEBRATING: Harlow Council's community leisure and cultural services manager Maureen Pearman, left, with Gibberd Gallery director Corrina Dunlea

The grant will also be used to launch a new marketing campaign to give the gallery a higher profile both locally and nationally.

Councillor Jean Clark, deputy leader of Harlow Council, said: "This is a fantastic boost for art in the town.

"This money will enable the Gibberd Gallery to extend its programme of activities over the next three years as well as take art out into the community."

DARK SKIES

Alien abduction activity

DARK SKIES certificate 15A, 1h37m

EVERY year thousands of people claim to have been abducted by aliens.

Elongated figures commonly known as Greys often appear in victims' testimonies, performing strange medical procedures on abductees, perhaps to make sense of our self-destructive species.

Conspiracy theorists blame these otherworldly visitations for the disappearance of children from their homes.

Dark Skies chronicles the days leading up to a supposed alien abduction through the eyes of a fractured suburban family, trapped in a familiar mire of unpaid bills, work pressures and teenage angst.

The ordinariness of the protagonists, who lie about a disastrous job interview or stare longingly at the girl next door, contrasts sharply with the disturbing events that threaten to rob them of their sanity.

Stewart's film opens with snapshots of life in the suburbs, where Daniel Barrett (Josh Hamilton) and his wife Lacy (Keri Russell) live with their two boys, Jesse (Dakota Goyo) and Sammy (Kadan Rockett).

Daniel is an unemployed architect while Lacy is an estate agent who sometimes allows her conscience to stop her closing a deal on a second-rate property.

One night Lacy is woken in the middle of the night and discovers the contents of the fridge strewn across the floor and the back door open.

She surmises that an animal must have gained entry but cannot fathom why the meat in the fridge was untouched.

The Barretts witness more strange occurrences and as these bizarre events increase in frequency and ferocity - including the mass suicide of flocks of birds - Daniel and Lacy struggle to protect their children from harm.

Lacy opens her mind to the possibility that her family is being targeted by a force from another planet but Daniel scoffs at the suggestion. However, he eventually changes his tune and the Barretts enlist the help of an alien specialist, Edwin Pollard (JK Simmons), who knows exactly what the family is going through.

Dark Skies sustains tension by grounding most of the family's torment in reality. Digital effects take a tighter hold of the narrative in the closing minutes when the mystery about the aliens is resolved with a flourish.

The familiarity of the set-up and its execution are the biggest disappointment, including a brief foray into Paranormal Activity-style video surveillance.

However, the cast members are solid, notably youngsters Goyo and Rockett who both deliver compelling, natural performances as innocents who turn to their parents for protection and discover they are terrifyingly alone.

FINDING NEMO 3D certificate U, 1h36m

TEN years after it was first released, Pixar's hugely entertaining comedy swims back into cinemas in 3D format - and it is still the cinematic catch of the day.

Eye-popping visuals and a superb script crammed with the gills with laugh-out-loud gags combine to stunning effect in this hugely entertaining and wildly inventive fable set beneath the ocean waves.

Marlin (voiced by Albert Brooks) is a neurotic clownfish who has never recovered emotionally from a barracuda attack which claimed the lives of his wife and all but one of his unborn children.

When his surviving son Nemo (Alexander Gould) is plucked from the Great Barrier Reef by a diver and re-housed in a fish tank in a dentist's waiting room, Marlin embarks on an epic adventure to bring the youngster home.

The clownfish is aided by a friendly blue tang called Dory (Ellen DeGeneres), who suffers from short-term memory loss, travelling through shark-infested waters to be reunited with his boy.

Meanwhile, Nemo hatches a daring escape from the crowded aquarium with the help of the other residents, including a Moorish Idol called Gill (Willem Dafoe), a hygiene-obsessed shrimp called Jacques (Joe Ranft) and a starfish called Peach (Allison Janney).

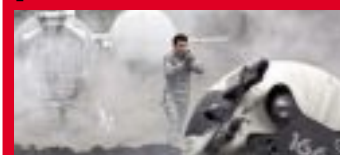

Finding Nemo is still computer-animated perfection. Brooks plays his compulsive-obsessive father with sensitivity and dry wit, while the rapport between Marlin and Dory is wonderful.

There are dozens of memorable supporting characters, including a surfer dude turtle and a trio of sharks keen to embrace vegetarianism.

Tracey Waples Property Editor

THE Government's new 'Help to Buy' scheme launched in last month's budget became available for new home properties from Monday this week.

It will enable home-movers to purchase a home with just a five per cent deposit and will apply to resale homes from January next year.

The 'Help to Buy' housing initiative is actually made up of two schemes - an 'equity loan' where the Government will lend you up to 20 per cent of the value of your new build home and 'mortgage guarantee' where lenders will be incentivised to make more mortgages available for people with small deposits.

The initiative is aimed at increasing the supply of low-deposit mortgages as well as new housing. Both schemes are available to home-movers as well as first-time buyers, subject to meeting the relevant eligibility criteria, on properties for sale at £600,000 or less.

Almost as soon as he had announced the scheme, Chancellor George Osborne came under fire from critics who claimed it could be used by wealthy homeowners to fund a second property. Although this is unlikely, the small print of the £12bn scheme does not rule out wealthy borrowers taking up the offer of a mortgage guarantee from the Government.

Mr Osborne answered his critics by saying he did not want the scheme to help people buy second homes, but refused to say they would be banned from doing so.

He also denied the initiative could spark a new debt-fuelled boom and insisted it wouldn't encourage people to buy homes they cannot afford.

Anything to help the first-time buyers has got to be a force for good, but 'Help to Buy' isn't going to magically reduce house prices to affordable levels.

Viewing Time

Most property vendors will recognise the tremendous importance of ensuring that as many prospective buyers as possible see their property. After all, more viewings means more buyer competition thereby maximising your chances of securing the highest price the market will pay.

However, whilst one always has to be fair, there is a lot to be said for strategic viewing! Good agents will advise their clients to be selective when arranging a time for prospective purchasers to view their home. After all, only the person who has lived in the property knows when the best times of day are. Here are a few tips:

Is your property on a school route? If so, during term time, it might be best to avoid the morning and afternoon drop-off and pick up times. If you are very close to a school, is it noisy during break-time?

Likewise are you near a pub, sports ground, or factory, which can have crowds of rowdy people spilling onto your street at certain times.

Consider which way your property faces. Bright accommodation and a sunny garden are great selling points, so choose times when the position of the sun is at its best. Perhaps a follow-up viewing is best organised for a different time of day to highlight a feature that might have been missed initially.

Nevertheless, do remember that agents and vendors alike have a duty of care not to misrepresent, so if there is an issue, such as predictable noise at certain times of day, then this should be disclosed. However, the importance of a good first impression cannot be overstressed, to the extent that many people will dismiss a minor inconvenience in light of having first fallen in love with their otherwise perfect home yours!

The next generation

BY IAIN DOOLEY

IN the four-door coupe market Mercedes has form. When it was launched, the original CLS prompted much head scratching from the press and was dismissed by many as little more than a glamorous sideshow. How wrong they were.

For buyers seeking E-Class levels of road presence but wanting something more eye-catching than a traditional saloon, the CLS delivered in spades and was bought in droves. So, how do you expand the appeal of something like the CLS? Simple, you build a smaller one and call it the CLA.

Seeking to cause the same disruption in the compact executive saloon market where conventional cars like BMW's 3 Series and Audi's A4 reside, the CLA's aim is to add some much needed glamour and, crucially, encourage younger buyers to embrace what's often viewed as an older person's brand.

Key to the CLA's appeal is that it doesn't look like a conventional Mercedes. Displaying similar design cues as the latest generation A-Class at the front and a pleasingly shapely rear, the car's appearance blends visual appeal with the ability to slice through the air more efficiently than your average small saloon.

Rakish looks and the CLA's coupe-like profile aside, the car is different mechanically from your average Mercedes C-Class in that it's front wheel drive. This bucking of the premium market trend continues with power coming exclusively from four-cylinder engines - petrol and diesel - including a four-wheel drive AMG version.

UK buyers initially get a choice of a 1.6-litre petrol motor badged as CLA 180 and a 2.1-litre CLA 220 CDI diesel unit. Launch specification is a six-speed manual transmission for the former and seven-speed direct-shift automatic for the latter.

The CLA is a two trim range - Sport and AMG Sport - boasting comfort and sport suspension set-ups respectively.

The reality is a car that, despite being a fraction longer than a C-Class, feels surprisingly compact on the road. The largely A-Class influenced cabin fascia works well, especially the generously dimensioned central colour display and familiar switchgear, and there's enough room up front for two adults to sit comfortably.

In the back it's not quite the compromise you might first think. Granted, headroom is modest for all the obvious reasons, but there's enough legroom for adults if the journey is short, yet there's plenty of space for a small but growing family. Space isn't an issue in the boot and there's the double bonus of folding rear seats.

Funky looks and reassuringly high levels of real-world practicality notwithstanding, the car's also got to drive well. In front-drive guise the CLS delivers a solid performance on a wide variety of road surfaces. The difference between comfort and sport set-ups is noticeable, although it's good to know that the latter doesn't disgrace itself on poorly surfaced urban roads.

The lack of pitch and roll when traveling at speed plus above average levels of cabin refinement can be credited to the car's well sorted chassis and class-leading aerodynamics respectively. And in diesel guise - a choice likely to be popular with company car drivers - the combination of low noise and ample pulling power help cement the CLA's engaging driver-focused appeal.

For the UK Mercedes is pitching the CLA as a youthful alternative to conventional compact executive models. As such there's a predictable sporty theme extending past the car's model names; 18-inch wheels are the default size for both trim levels along with sports front seats and a chunky three-spoke steering wheel.

The glitzy grille found on upmarket A-Class models is standard here, while over and above the audio kit and large central colour display on both cars, AMG Sport variants gain a subtle bodykit, the aforementioned sports suspension set-up, privacy glass and bi-xenon headlights.

After the success of the larger CLS it was only a matter of time before Mercedes turned its attention to the smaller, compact executive market.

Despite the firm's focus on exterior design and delivering a coupe-like four-door profile, the day-to-day compromise is minimal. Luggage space easily matches its conventional rivals and the cabin is plenty big enough.

The icing on the cake is the car's polished road manners, which do much to banish any idea that it's a car that's abandoned substance for style.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

 What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Green targeting Addicks survival

DANNY Green believes Charlton need at least one more win to secure their Championship status.

The Addicks winger, a former student at St Mark's School in Harlow, was speaking to Harlow-based Hawks Radio before Saturday's triumph over Bolton.

He said then: "I don't think we are properly safe yet. We need two wins from our last eight matches."

It has been a gripping season in the Championship, with many predicting teams might need as many as 55 points to stay up.

Usually 50 has been enough, but third from bottom Huddersfield are only 12 points off seventh-placed Leicester.

Green, whose family still live in Harlow, was on the bench for the 3-2 win over Bolton at The Valley.

Charlton then sealed a valuable point at play-off chasing Brighton on Tuesday.

"Our away form has been really good. We went out and beat every one last year," Green explained. "I'd hoped we would do better than we have done."

Green (24) told Hawks Radio about his heartbreak at being told at 15 he was not good enough and released by Charlton.

"They were in the Premiership at the time and they had Jonatan Johansson. They could not see me getting any bigger.

"When you are told you are not going to make it as a professional at 15 it's really tough. They take you into a room with your mum and dad."

However, the winger then secured a deal at Northampton Town, who had just secured promotion to League One.

"Ever since I was a kid I wanted to be a professional footballer," he said.

"All I knew at that age was the Premiership. Northampton came in. I didn't know where that was," he joked. "There was me and a lad from Everton in central midfield and we both got taken on."

But after an injury-plagued spell at Northampton he had a fruitful loan spell at Bishop's Cleeve and from there switched to Dagenham in League Two.

He enjoyed a great season under John Still, helping the team to promotion when he scored a spectacular Wembley goal – the best of his career he says – as Dagenham climbed to League One for the first time in their history with a play-off final triumph.

Green then signed for Charlton and was part of the squad which won promotion to the Championship last season.

The player will look to coach children when he hangs up his boots.

He added: "I would like to go into coaching, maybe run a soccer school or I would like to run an academy."

A podcast of the interview is available at <http://hdf1chairman.podomatic.com>

Flare ignited

Witches cast spell in cup opener

RYE House Rockets went down to a narrow two-point defeat in their opening League Cup fixture against Ipswich Witches on Friday.

Swede Anders Mellgren blasted off his campaign to top score for the Hoddesdon team with a 10-point haul from his five rides.

Mellgren said: "First meeting of the year done. A bit rusty but 10 points was OK. I was disappointed with a couple of races though."

This meeting was always going to be a tough one for the Rockets against opposition with one of the country's top Premier

IPSWICH WITCHES 46, RYE HOUSE ROCKETS 44

League riders in Ben Barker.

Barker proved the difference between the sides with 12 points, but he was beaten in the race of the night by Olly Allen, who passed Barker on the outside, then Leigh Lanham on the inside, to take the win.

Rye House scorers: Anders Mellgren 10, Olly Allen 9, Jason Bunyan 7+1, Tyson Nelson 7, Jason Garrity 6+2, Kasper Lykke 3+1, Simon Lambert 2+1.

Rockets reeling after double injury horror

RYE HOUSE ROCKETS 47, IPSWICH WITCHES 43

RYE House Rockets promoter Len Silver admitted he was devastated by serious injuries sustained by skipper Jason Bunyan and reserve rider Simon Lambert during his team's 47-43 victory over Ipswich in the League Cup on Monday, writes ANDREW FRANCAZAK.

Bunyan suffered suspected broken ribs in a horrific pile up on the back straight in Heat 8 involving Ipswich's Jari Makinen, while Lambert careered into the third bend safety fence at full pelt after chasing down Ipswich's Rohan Tungate in Heat 12.

Silver said: "I'm absolutely devastated. No one was to blame for the crashes – it was just hard racing. In both instances the riders got locked together."

"It's like Groundhog Day. We lost Chris [Neath] and Jordan [Frampton] in our first matches against Ipswich last season, now it's happened again."

"We've only turned a few wheels and already we've got two injuries."

Silver praised the efforts of his riders, and also thanked the crowd, on a freezing afternoon at Hoddesdon.

"I'm over the moon with the way my riders are going – everyone was trying their guts out."

"I'd like to thank the crowd for their patience during the two stoppages. Speedway supporters are wonderful people and they really showed that today."

Bunyan's spill came as he was trying to get between Makinen and Heeps coming out of the second bend and heading into the back straight. He seemed to lose control, and as he hit the dirt Makinen tried to avoid him, but couldn't, and piled into the back of him.

The Ipswich rider eventually got up and made his way gingerly back to the pits clutching his right arm, but Bunyan received lengthy treatment on the track before eventually being carefully lifted into the ambulance and taken to hospital.

After a delay of an hour waiting for a replacement ambulance, the meeting resumed but Rockets suffered another blow as reserve Lambert careered into the safety fence in Heat 12.

Again it was a case of hard riding as he had brilliantly tried to chase down Tungate around the outside, but he locked up on the exit to the third bend and flew into the barrier.

Tungate escaped uninjured, but Lambert was placed in the ambulance having sustained a broken ankle.

These two worrying incidents apart the meeting was high quality, with Anders Mellgren (11+1) and Tyson Nelson (11+1) leaving the Rye House fans in raptures with some tremendous passing.

There was little between the teams with eight shared heats.

Nelson was clearly making up for lost time as he went from the back to the front with a thrilling ride in Heat 4, a fabulous race. He also stormed to victory in Heat 7.

A sublime 5-1 from Anders Mellgren and Garrity, with Garrity overtaking Leigh Lanham in breathless fashion, warmed the frozen crowd up, and at 31-23 Rockets looked to be heading for all three match points.

The Heat 12 accident took the wind out of Rockets' sails, and it was heart in mouths time in Heat 14 as Garrity took a tumble while hot on the heels of Morten Risager and Heeps, but with Heeps then falling and remounting, Kasper Lykke took two points to make it 44-40 going into the last race.

Mellgren and Nelson did their best to make it a grandstand finish for Rockets, but the seasoned Ben Barker had other ideas to split them for another 3-3 and a 47-43 final scoreline.

Nelson said: "It was a good meet. all the boys rode well. I scored 12 points so I'm really happy with that."

"The track was a bit difficult at the start but by the end it was OK. I've got to keep it on a roll now."

Rye House scorers: Olly Allen 6; Bunyan 4+1; Anders Mellgren 11+2; Jason Garrity 7+1; Tyson Nelson 11+1; Kasper Lykke 4+2; Simon Lambert 4.

Hawks Radio delivers new cricket show

HARLOW Town Cricket Club have teamed up with internet radio station Hawks Radio this summer to provide an interactive magazine style locally focused show promoting the sport.

Starting on Monday June 3 from 8pm-10pm, members of the Elizabeth Way club will be volunteering their time to host the show on the Harlow-based station, which will have guests from the local sporting community and potentially county and international cricketers.

The show will discuss results and fixtures from the majority of the Essex leagues, and will focus on local clubs around the Harlow area while touching on the county and international scene and previewing forthcoming matches.

Schools cricket will be covered alongside fundraising events at local clubs, as well as giving updates on the schemes run by the club such as the Jack Petchey winners.

There will also be competitions.

HTCC spokesman Jason Gladwin added: "This is a fantastic opportunity to raise the profile of local cricket not only to the community but internationally as well. The current Hawks Radio shows attracts audiences from the sub-continent all the way to America.

"We are looking to give the community a fun, interesting and interactive show where everybody can play a part.

"We will be looking for the local cricketing community to get involved with the phone-ins, emails and social media."

In division one, North Weald triumphed 2-1 at Birchanger.

In the Inter-Divisional Plate third round, Fairways Corinthians bounced back from their semi-final loss last week to defeat Avondale Rangers reserves 9-8 on penalties after a 1-1 draw.

In the same competition, Hertfordshire Rangers won 2-0 at Sheering reserves.

Volleyball club's Latvian link

COACH Ilia Kalanov is hoping that the influence of two new professional players will help Harlow Volleyball Club to avert relegation from Essex League division two.

Kaspars Ondzulis and Gatis Lagzdins, who have been playing professional volleyball in Latvia, have teamed up with the Passmores School based club.

Ondzulis figured in the recent 3-0 win over Brentwood, which was Harlow's second victory in the league this season.

Kalanov said: "Kaspars played really well. I was really happy with the team as all players played well.

"It was a very important win to bring back our confidence. It has not been the most successful season for us. We have lost a few close games."

He added: "We have a very important last two league matches against Chelmsford at home [April 14] and Brentwood away [April 20].

"We might finish second from bottom or last in the table. One team is set to be relegated and Kaspars and Gatis will help us avoid that."

Kalanov feels his squad has ability but does not train enough to fulfil their

STRUGGLING: Harlow Volleyball Club have signed two Latvian players (S) potential.

He said: "We have a team in my opinion with the best abilities in the league, but because we have only one session a week we can't improve as quick as I am planning."

Harlow were also beaten 3-0 by Stowmarket in the first round of the Essex Rucanor Cup.

Kalanov added: "Stowmarket play in a league above us and it was a good experience to play a better team."

British bronze joy for brilliant Becca

JUDO

GIFTED Harlow Judo Club player Rebecca Howlett rose to the occasion again when she claimed a bronze medal at the British Schools Championships.

The event at Sheffield saw Howlett (11) come third after she won three out of four contests.

Freddy White (14) won one contest before he was beaten by the winner and later came close to a bronze.

There were a number of achievements by Harlow players in other competitions and at a grading.

A senior team (over 16 years) gained six medals between them at the Ipswich Senior and Veterans Open.

Golds were won by William Parker (29), who won four contests and James South (23), who won two. His third opponent failed to show.

Bronzes were earned by Leigh Hemming (19), Alex Hemming (16), Ian Thomas (34) and Dell Hiley (33).

Harlow's senior club coach Mick Ellis said: "This was the first event for most of the Harlow men which made the results even better."

Ellis also lauded Alex Hemming who was added to the Harlow club's list of black belts.

Ellis said: "This is particularly good as it was only three years ago that Alex took up the sport."

Six medals were scooped by Harlow players in the Northern Home Counties Red Belt Rumble at High Wycombe in Buckinghamshire.

Thomas Lambert (10) and Jack George (15) won gold medals.

Silvers were gained by Shannon Hiley (10), Finlay Hampton (10) and Chris Marshall (10), while a bronze was gained by Jake Harris (11).

The club is aiming to start a women's team. Full details of training times can be found on the club website. The club is based at Stewards and Katherine's Hatch in Brookside.

Time for Hawks to stand up and fight

PLAYER-coach Danny Brown was not looking for excuses after Harlow Town's home defeat against fellow strugglers Ware saw them slip into the bottom three of Ryman League division one north.

The Easter Monday defeat also saw Ware leapfrog Harlow to go 19th in the table.

This reverse was compounded by Brown going off with a calf injury in the 11th minute – which could keep Harlow's defensive lynchpin out for the rest of the season – and defender Christian Wheeler's sending off for an alleged stamp in the closing stages which sparked a 20-man fracas.

Harlow, who face Romford away this Saturday before they host high-flying Grays Athletic on Tuesday, would be better placed but for the 10-point deduction they suffered.

However, Brown said: "We are where we are and we are down there for a reason. We cannot feel sorry for ourselves. Nobody is going to give us points.

"If people cannot get up for the games we have coming up, I do not know what they can get up for. We need points."

He added: "You can go on about not conceding but we are not looking that creative."

"I do not think we would have scored now if we were still playing. It is not just about forwards. We need goals from everyone."

The hosts came close to scoring in the sixth minute against Ware. Joe O'Donoghue's in-swinging free kick clipped the outside of a Ware post.

The first half was uninspiring, but the deadlock was broken on 69 minutes when Ware's giant centre forward Leon Simpson headed home at the back post.

Simpson then made it 2-0 with a super 25-yard strike on 85 minutes.

Minutes later, Wheeler then saw red in only his second game back for Harlow after leaving Waltham Abbey. This prompted a 20-man brawl but this was quickly quelled.

Brown said: "I did not see the incident. I think frustration got the better of him and he made the wrong decision."

Rams have the Beccs factor to win 'eight pointer'

HARLOW 36, BECCLES 3
RFU LONDON & SOUTH EAST, DIVISION THREE NORTH EAST

THERE was no stopping Harlow as they registered a convincing home win over Beccles in an eight-pointer in the RFU London division three north east.

The Rams scored five tries and Saturday's triumph also saw them leapfrog Beccles to go seventh in the 12-team table.

Harlow, who welcomed back skipper Shaun Roberts after a shoulder injury, had the slope in their favour in the first half and went ahead within a few minutes.

Centre Wayne Heapy went over for the first try which was unconverted.

Harlow then conceded a penalty before they scored their second try on 10 minutes. A good attack on the right resulted in swift winger Will Grimley cutting in for a touchdown converted by Michael Dobson.

The Rams' lead was extended midway through the first period when prop Danny Stonehouse scored a try following a rolling maul.

Dobson kicked the conversion and subsequent first-half action saw the hosts resist two prolonged periods of Beccles pressure.

Harlow led 19-3 at half-time.

Four minutes after the break a good home backs move saw centre Luke Bowering break to touch down close to the posts. Dobson kicked the conversion.

Harlow's last try came when lock Jonathan Unwin went over from a line-out move. Dobson kicked the conversion and then a penalty at the end.

First team player-coach Rhys Powell said: "We have not beaten Beccles before. It was an excellent performance and rated with our win at Upminster."

"It was also very good not to concede a try."

HARLOW: Roze, Stonehouse, Prindiville (Branch 45), Twiner, Unwin, Roberts, Drake, Claridge, Powell, Dobson, Grimley, Heapy, Bowering (McMullen 50), Webb, Mackie. Sub not used: Fricker.

Late Knowles save clinches point for Harlow

THE Hawks showed the necessary mettle as they ground out a draw at Potters Bar Town.

There was not much goalmouth action in Saturday's clash.

Harlow Town were sound defensively as they secured their 10th clean sheet of the season.

Harlow's starting line-up at The Pakex Stadium included new signing, winger Kemel Harvey, who joined before the transfer deadline from FC Haringey.

Winger Nathan Hunte also joined from Haringey and he was on the subs' bench alongside another new recruit, ex-Barnet midfielder Joshua Brimacombe-Wiard.

The first half saw the hosts' Aryan Tajbakhsh fire over the Hawks bar twice from half chances.

Shortly after the break, Harlow came closest to scoring.

Joakim Ehui's chip from the edge of the box beat home keeper Ed Thompson and clipped the bar.

Danny Brown also came close for the visitors, but Bar had the better of the second half.

On 58 minutes, Hawks defender Kevin Toonga blocked a goalbound shot from Gary Walton.

Then in the second minute of injury time Hawks keeper Danny Knowles dived brilliantly to keep out a shot from Louis Lavers and secure a valuable point for Harlow.

Hawks boss Danny Chapman said: "In the first half we did well but could not score."

"They were the better side in the second half and had a few chances."

He added: "A draw was a fair result and it was a great save from Danny Knowles at the end for us."

"It was a good point for us."
